1. Cub Code of Conduct

Duty Of Care

Royal Jiu Jitsu has the highest duty of care to its members, employees and anyone present within the facility.

Royal Jiu Jitsu is responsible for ensuring:

- All coaches are aware of their responsibilities and what they are suitably qualified to teach.
- All coaches have current appropriate safeguard and first aid training.
- All coaches are have enhanced DBS checks.
- All members are aware of the expectations outlined in the code of conduct for individuals.

The Health, Safety and Welfare of Participants

Royal Jiu Jitsu is always concerned regarding the safety and well-being of all participants and abides by the following good practice:

- Always provide a safe environment, ensuring that apparatus and matting areas are clean, adequate size of the class and left in a fit state for future use.
- To ensure safe supervision of all participants Royal Jiu Jitsu will have one coach per 24 participants on a matted area of 2 square meters per person for live sparring.
- All legislation established and strictly adhered to and all appropriate risk assessments carried out and regularly reviewed.
- All members to complete a yearly medical questionnaire to update and inform of any issues that may arise during training. Ensure participants know to alert coaches in the event of new condition arising or if they are suffering from an injury which could be made worse by participating in certain activities.
- Supervise the dispersal and collection of juniors and adults at risk to ensure their safety.
- Detailed Safeguarding Adults and Child Protection and Safeguarding Policies are in place and located on the Royal Jiu Jitsu website. All coaches are to familiarise themselves with the contents of these policies. The named Safeguarding Lead Officer is Samantha Cook- Director.

Equality And Humanity

Royal Jiu Jitsu expects all directors and coaches to respect the rights and choices of all human beings, treating everyone equally and sensitively regardless of their gender, ethnic origin, cultural background, sexual orientation, religion or political affiliation. Royal Jiu Jitsu acknowledges the need in some cases for unequal effort to ensure that the principle of equality is achieved. For example, a student who has a physical disability may require adaptations to be made to the techniques taught in the class to enable full engagement in the session. Royal Jiu Jitsu abides by the Royal Jiu Jitsu Equality Policy in order to promote equal opportunities within the club.

Disability Discrimination Act

Disability is defined as a physical or mental impairment, which has an effect on a person's ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities. The Disability Discrimination Act 1995 makes any discrimination unlawful on the ground of a person's disability. Some disabilities will be required to have adaptations which Royal Jiu Jitsu will thoroughly consider in order to enable participation in the sport. The club owners should be aware if participants have long-term medical conditions such as epilepsy, diabetes or asthma. Club owners should also be aware of any participants specific needs; what they can do as well as what they cannot do and the barriers they face to participation. Some medical conditions prohibit participation; club owners and coaches are advised to seek professional advice (Students GP) prior to commencing training.

Relationships

The ultimate responsibility for relationships within Royal Jiu Jitsu lies with the club owners.

Club Owners will ensure that at all times:

- the relationship between participant and coach should always be based upon mutual trust and respect and this position must not be abused.
- Club owners and coaches should refrain from contact with any young person through social networking sites if they hold a position of trust and/or responsibility in respect of the individual.
- The safety and well-being and protection of individuals in their charge, ensuring that all training and playing demands are not detrimental to the social, emotional, intellectual and physical needs of the individual.
- Encouraging independence through guiding athletes to accept responsibility for their own behaviour is not misconstrued or open to allegations of favouritism, misconduct or impropriety, particularly where physical contact between coach and performer is necessary within coaching practice.

- Ensuring participants and relevant people are aware of the qualifications and experience of all coaches, respecting the rights of participants to choose to consent or decline to participate within coaching or competition situations.
- Refraining from public criticism of other clubs, coaches, competition officials- the definition of public in this instance refers to criticism expressed in any branch of the media (including social media) or in lectures or seminars.
- The club has clear, published guidance on what to do if a member feels any of the above have been violated by any individual associated with the club- See Royal Jiu Jitsu Safeguarding Adults Policy and Royal Jiu Jitsu Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy.

Confidentiality

All information held Royal Jiu Jitsu is held in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). Confidentiality does not preclude disclosure of information to persons who can be judged to have a right to know.

Examples include:

- In matters of disciplinary
- In matters of disciplinary action by a sports organisation against one of its members

3. Code of Conduct for Individual Members

Duty of Care

Any athlete participating in Brazilian Jiu Jitsu has a duty of care to themselves, their training partners and opponents in competition setting.

The Athletes duty of care includes:

- Ensuring your coach as details of any medical condition (including injuries) and any information on how that may affect your participation in classes or competitions.
- Ensure that you notify your coach immediately in the event that you develop any infections condition and isolate from the gym until said condition is confirmed by a medical practitioner to no longer be contagious.
- Ensure all training kit is clean and in a good state of repair for every session. You should maintain a good level of personal hygiene, ensuring finger and toenails are neatly trimmed, long hair is tied back and piercings and personal jewellery are removed.
- Ensuring you never intentionally seek to injure your training partner or opponent. As with all combat sports injuries do happen but to seek to deliberately harm an opponent is against the spirit of Brazilian Jiu Jitsu and will be met with severe consequences.
- If you have concerns regarding the welfare or actions of a fellow member of the club (children included) you must alert your coach immediately and/or refer to the Royal Jiu Jitsu Safeguarding Policy and Royal Jiu Jitsu Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy. In the event the concerns are regarding your coach, you should reach out to the club owners.

Respect

Any athlete participating in Brazilian Jiu Jitsu should show respect to all other participants and to the image of the sport as a whole.

- Bullying / harassment of any form will not be tolerated under any circumstance.
Anyone found to be participating in such behaviours would be subject to disciplinary measures from their club and possibly depending on the severity of the incident by the UKBJJA.
- Illegal behaviour. Athletes should operate within the law at all times. Members who are involved in crimes of a violent or sexual nature should expect strong action to be taken by Royal Jiu Jitsu with regards to their continued participation at the club.

- Tournament etiquette. Ensure you are fully aware of the rules for the event you are competing in. Accept the decisions of the match officials without question or complaint, respecting them and your opponent at all times. Any dispute over a decision should be raised to the head referee by your coach in the method outlined in the rules for the competition as long as it meets the criteria for when such a review should occur.

4. Code of Conduct for Parents/Carers

- Always alert your clubs instructor to any changes in the medical circumstances of your child prior to their next training session at the club.
- Make sure you are aware of the correct people to contact at the club if you have concerns about a child's welfare.
- Teach your child to treat everyone equally and sensitively regardless of their gender, ethnic origin or cultural background.
- Do not force an unwilling child to take part in Brazilian Jiu Jitsu.
- Encourage your child always to play by rules and to respect match officials.
- Never ridicule or shout at any child for making a mistake during training or losing a match.
- Teach your child that effort is as important as victory, so that the result of each match is accepted without undue disappointment.
- Support all efforts to remove verbal, physical and racist abuse from Brazilian Jiu Jitsu.
- Turn defeat into victory by helping young people towards skill improvement and good sportsmanship.
- Remember that young people learn best by example.
- Do not question publicly the judgement of match officials and never their honesty.
- Recognise the value and importance of volunteer coaches and administrators – they give their time, energy and resources to provide recreational activities for your child.
- Insist on fair and disciplined participation in the sport – do not tolerate foul play, cheating, foul, sexist or racist language.
- As a spectator you must never enter the field of play, this includes the mat space at Royal Jiu Jitsu and any competition areas.
